4/17/98

Dear Olay,

I've taken your suggestion and enclose the pages with corrections, hoping that I've made no mistakes, no omissions, when I did the copying.

There were times when I was going over this that I got the impression that you were working when you should have been resting or asleep, that you were overly tired.

It made me appreciate even more what you have done.

I should have added 1998 to the copyright date because the epilogue is of 1998.

Again, my sincere thanks and best wishes,

Harold
